The whole committee think the item of $150-for pulling down stone-work to find improper mixture in cement " was justifiable under the circumstances," and agree in istifiable "instead of tamping with clay." Also, that witness over-estimated the excessive cost in the "tnode of removing earth burn and others, a committee, asking for the from Ashland street"; also, that "failure to puddle inner slope of embankment" bas not been done, and cannot be cailed an expenditure as yet; and that as to unnecessary cost of pipes before needed, and at higher price than the same would now cost, the matter was ordered by the City Council, and any blame which attaches is chargable only

It does not appear from the evidence that any loss has been occasioned to the city ay any drunkenness or irregularity of employes, except the breakage of a wagon, which cost $44.50, and which the committee are of opinion the party should be required to refund out of his wages. The evidence shows extra cost from digging trenches ahead of pipes, which may have resulted from the fact that digging trenches and laying pipes seem to be under separate control, which is referred to for such action as the City Council may deem proper. Your committee would call attention to the fact that right of way is not yet obtained through Shields's property, where the pipes are already laid, and would suggest propricty of early action in the matter. The engineer states the $200,000 recently asked for will complete the new reservoir minor to the Male Orphan Asylum, she well and all connecting pipes, except connecting knowing him to be so indentured." W. C. CARRINGTON. [Signea] Mr. Scott moved that the report be committed, in order that the Committee on Retrenchment and Reform might place the blame exactly where it belonged-upon the City Engineer or the Water Committee, or the other persons in charge.

Colonel Carrington said that the committee had somewhat considered that matter, but had not thought it in their province, and it the Council wanted them they would cheerfully endeavor to designate where the blame belonged. In the course of his remarks Colonel Carrington said that he had never assailed the moral character of any member of the Committee on Water. He had read anonymous letters assailing members of the committee, but these assailants were either countant H. D. At this juncture of affairs the Police Justice called to Mr. Gill to come back, and that gentleman returned to the bar of ed him over to his mother, stating that it aponly by a judge upon a writ of habeas corpus. The Justice further said that in permitting Mr. Gill to start off with the child be desired to test the willingness of the mother to yield him up, and that he believed that the law required the written agreement between Mrs. Donnahoe and Dr. Parker spoken of to be recorded, which, from Dr. Parker's testimony, it seemed had not been done.

Dr. Parker will at once proceed to recover the child by writ of habeas corpus, and in discharge his duty to the boy.

When Sunday morning comes with so much yet to be done, and the question arises, Who shall stay at home to help mother? it is almost always answered by sending the boys to school and keeping the girls at home. While sympathizing deeply with parents thus situated, he yet earnestly urged them to make an extra effort, by commencing early in the week, to arrange their affairs so as to permit their daughters to go to Sunday doing so disclaims any other motive than to school and thus acquire that religious training which would be of such great service to them in after years by fitting them for the responsible positions which they would be

T. J. Evans, Esq., thought that one reason of the great difference in the number of male and temale scholars was (and he hoped the ladies would pardon him for saying it) that parents were sometimes not so very careful about their boys dressing so finely, to Sunday school unless they were " dressed to death and their trunks empty." Mr. Evans gave some interesting facts and statistics, as gathered from the reports presented to the recent International Sunday-School Convention held in the city of Baltimore, as ground for great encouragement to Sunday-school workers; and closed by lamenting the fact that, with all the large numbers reported to the meeting Sunday afternoon, so few conversions had occurred.

Rev. J. M. Butler, in discussing the question under consideration, said that the Sunday schools were now so much more interestresterd y. Mr. C. D. boys to keep ahead of them so far. Dr. Chiles stated that in his school the male and female departments were about equal, and thought it was occasioned by the fact that there was a sort of generous rivalry between the sexes which caused both sides to use extra efforts to excel in numbers. Mr. H. K. Ellyson asked why it was that while the males outnumbered the females yet a larger number of female scholars were brought into the churches.

Mr. Ellyson made an address urging upon teachers the great need of constant and continued prayer for God's blessing upon the pupils, believing, as he said, that an earnest, praying, and faithful teacher would be as successful with males as with females. The meeting was one of the most interest-

Then a convention was called in New York of all denominations, and in the majority of the schools represented there had not been a conversion during the year.

The following very interesting exercises by the children were then introduced: Declamations : " Thou God Seest Me," by Mary French; "If Papa were Only Ready, by May Tucker; "The Blind Boy," by Rosa Baker; "Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep," Lola Mitchell; "Heaven," Nannie Smith; "Prayer vs. Benevolence," George Armi-Leigh-Street Baptist church one person was stead; "Borrioboola Gha," Julia Henning. The large field of usefulness now thrown open by the Sunday-school work supplies W. Dungee, of the Navy Hill Free Baptist work for every hand and heart to do.
